

PEDESTRIAN BRIDGE TEMPORARY CLOSURE; OPENING NEW MARION STREET PEDESTRIAN BRIDGE MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6

The Office of the Waterfront and Civic Projects plans to open the new Marion Street Pedestrian Bridge connecting Colman Dock to downtown Seattle at 1st Ave on November 6. A temporary bridge on Marion St, Western Ave and Columbia St has been providing the pedestrian link since the Alaskan Way viaduct was demolished. To complete the final connection at Western Ave between the existing bridge and new bridge, the existing bridge will be closed for the weekend from Friday evening, November 3 through early Monday, November 6. There will also be street impacts on Alaskan Way, Marion St, Western Ave and Columbia St, see below for details.

On November 6, we will open the new bridge, which connects to the existing bridge between Western and 1st avenues, and ties directly into the elevated passenger concourse.

Starting this same weekend, and continuing for several months, the temporary bridge will be removed and demolished. Removal of the temporary bridge is expected to be completed in early 2024.
