

REVISED ON NOVEMBER 5: PEDESTRIAN BRIDGE CLOSURE; OPENING NEW MARION STREET PEDESTRIAN BRIDGE WEEK OF NOVEMBER 6

The Office of the Waterfront and Civic Projects plans to open the new Marion Street Pedestrian Bridge connecting Colman Dock to downtown Seattle at 1st Ave the week of November 6. A temporary bridge on Marion St, Western Ave and Columbia St has been providing the pedestrian link since the Alaskan Way viaduct was demolished. To complete the final connection at Western Ave between the existing bridge and new bridge, the existing bridge closed Friday evening, November 3 and bridge access will reopen the week of November 6. There will also be street impacts on Alaskan Way, Marion St, Western Ave and Columbia St, see below for details.

The week of November 6, we will open the new bridge, which connects to the existing bridge between Western and 1st avenues, and ties directly into the elevated passenger concourse.

Starting this same weekend, and continuing for several months, the temporary bridge will be removed and demolished. Removal of the temporary bridge is expected to be completed in early 2024.

SCHEDULE AND HOURS

- Work will take place day and night until the bridge opens
- The new bridge is expected to open before the end of the week of November 6

PEDESTRIAN ACCESS

- Bridge access closed Friday evening, November 3, and will reopen the week of November 6
- Pedestrian access to Colman Dock ferry terminal open at all times from ground level entrances on Alaskan Way at Yesler Way, Columbia St and Marion St
- Flaggers will be on site to assist pedestrian access

VEHICLE ACCESS

- Marion St between Alaskan Way and 1st Ave reduced to one lane 9 AM to 6 AM, to maintain full access during peak morning hours

PARKING AND LOAD ZONES

- Temporary parking restrictions will be in place on Western Ave between Columbia and Marion streets, follow restrictions noted on "No Parking" signs

BUS STOP AND ROUTE CHANGES

- The outbound bus stop on Columbia St is open

EQUIPMENT AND NOISE

- Work will include mobilization of large equipment, including cranes
- Expect construction equipment and vehicles moving in and out of the work zone
- Construction trucks and equipment may be noisy and cause some vibration

WHAT TO EXPECT THE WEEK OF NOVEMBER 6

- Marion Street Pedestrian Bridge open
- Ongoing removal and demolition of the temporary bridge on Western Ave and Columbia St
